

Paste paper workshop

November 9 & 10, 2019 (Saturday and Sunday)

Led by: Elizabeth McKee

Time: 9:30 am–4 pm

Where: 320 Amherst Dr SE, Albuquerque 87106

Fee: $150 (includes 4 full sheets of Arches Text wove, all paste, paint and miscellaneous cool stuff)

Paste paper had its origins about 450 years ago when printers, wanting a less expensive decorative paper for end papers than marbled paper, added paint to their paste and made patterns on paper with it. Many of us were first introduced to paste paper in primary school where it is known as finger painting. More recently calligraphers realized that paste makes an excellent surface on which to write.

Day one: Participants will systematically prepare pages with assorted pastes and tools to create personal paste paper reference books.

Day two: Paste paper clinic. Participants are invited to bring in unsuccessful paste paper pages and apply new layers or techniques to enhance and improve them, thus turning them into successful paste papers.

OR participants may choose to continue to work on their samplers with inspiration from the other participants.

OR participants may choose to work on new paste paper with their knowledge gained on day one.

OR all of the above.

At the end of day two we will bind our books and make simple pouches for them using some of our fresh paste papers.
